

Working in East and South-East Asia

East and South-East Asia comprise a number of countries that are politically, geographically, economically and culturally diverse where working practices and laws vary considerably. We hope that the following links are useful. Please note that it is worth carefully checking the authenticity of other websites not listed here. Further information may be obtained from your local embassy or consulate.

East Asia

East Asia includes China, Taiwan, Japan, North Korea, South Korea and Mongolia.

China

<http://english.gov.cn/service/working.htm>

Taiwan

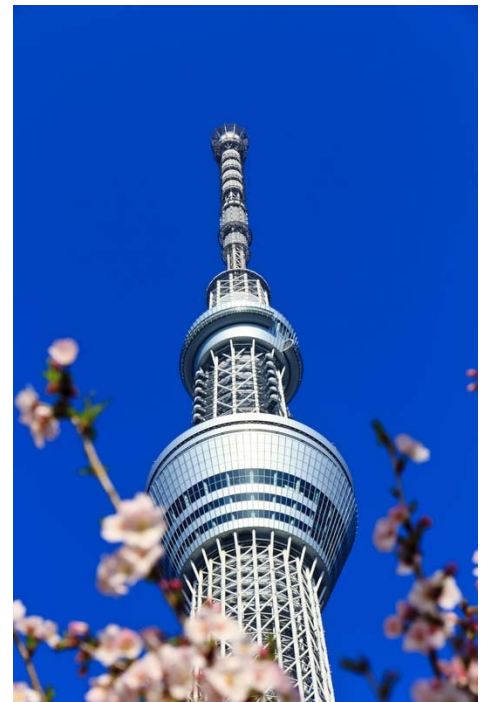

<http://www.taiwan.gov.tw/lp.asp?CtNode=1928&CtUnit=908&BaseDS=D=7&mp=999>

Japan

http://www.mofa.go.jp/about/emb_cons/mofaserv.html

South Korea

<http://www.korea.net/>

South-East Asia

South-East Asia is divided into the Asian Mainland (Indochina) which includes Burma, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Vietnam and Peninsular Malaysia and the Malay Archipelago incorporating Brunei, East Malaysia, East Timor, Indonesia, the Philippines and Singapore.

Cambodia www.cambodia.gov.kh

Thailand

The following website is not run by the Thai government but has useful information on Visa requirements and links to all the Thai embassies:

<http://thailand.prd.go.th/>

Vietnam

<http://www.chinhphu.vn/portal/page/portal/English/visa-procedure>

Myanmar (formerly Burma)

<http://www.mofa.gov.mm/>

Malaysia

<http://www.malaysia.gov.my/EN/Relevant%20Topics/Employment%20and%20Training/NonCitizen/nEmploymentInMalaysia/Pages/EmploymentInMalaysia.aspx>

Brunei

<http://www.immigration.gov.bn/working.htm>

Philippines

http://immigration.gov.ph/index.php?option=com_content&task=view&id=64&Itemid=43

Singapore

<http://www.mom.gov.sg/Pages/default.aspx>

